

DELTA STATE ACTION PLAN FOR THE UNITED NATIONS SECURITY COUNCIL RESOLUTION 1325 BY WOMEN PEACE AND SECURITY NETWORK

BACKGROUND

Nigeria is experiencing rising and persistent and violent conflict. It is the predominant regional power and has taken a substantial role in conflict resolution in West Africa. No one can deny the disproportionate impact of war and conflict on women and children, the violation of their rights as it has been noticed all over the world how women and children suffer greatly through, deaths, torture, rape, sex slavery, forced pregnancies and lot more during conflicts and war. Over the last decade Nigeria has been flooded with violent crisis situations, from the insurgencies in the Niger delta to the terrorist attacks and incessant killings in the northern area of Nigeria. While women play negligible roles in causing the crisis situations, they pay dearly with their lives, children and dignity during conflicts. They are attacked by both insurgent and security agents in times and more often than none, in times of peace. Women all over the world are galvanized to lobby and demand from the national Governments, sub-regional and regional organizations and the UN Security council that women's right should be protected in war and also in peace times.

Why domesticate the UNSCR in Delta state?

UNSCR is relevant to Delta state and the Nigerian situation as it addresses local problem affecting the security status of Nigerian women. On the issue of the involvement of women in mainstream conflict resolution and peace building processes, the resolution addresses;

- The absence of gender perspectives in the peace/security enforcement framework in Nigeria
- the lack of institutional support and community level initiative by women to maintain the peace within their locality
- the marginalization of Nigerian women in formal policy making positions, traditional peace building mechanisms, security, enforcement institutions and ad hoc peace building mechanisms created by states
- the failure of state authorities to consult women even informally, in the course of state initiated peace processes

The National Action Plan (NAP) for implantation of the UNSCR 1325

The national action plan for the implantation of the UNSRC 1325 was put together by the Federal Ministry of Women affairs and Social Developments. It takes the cognizance the need to protect women and girls from violence and also the participation of women in peace processes. The NAP is built on five pillars called 5 Ps;

1. prevention: to prevent all types of violence against women and girls
2. protection: to protect women from all type of violence
3. participation: to ensure women's participation in all activities in conflict prevention, peace building and post-conflict recovery processes at all levels
4. promotion: to promote women's right, ownership and funding
5. prosecution: to strengthen prosecution and ensure quick trial of perpetrators of gender based violence impunity.

WOMEN, PEACE AND SECURITY IN DELTA STATE

Delta state is a leading producer of oil and gas in Nigeria with estimated one-third of daily volume of oil produced in the country reported to come from the state with some of Nigeria's major oil industries and facilities operating in the state. The state has experienced a lot of conflict around resource control, with adverse effect on its economic and socio cultural development of the state. Violence was mainly the result of confrontation between Joint Task Force (JTF) and non-state militant groups over militants' attempts to sabotage oil production as part of their campaign to transfer more revenues to oil producing states, and to end the environmental pollution associated with oil exploration and exploitation. In 2009 the debilitating impact of the insurgency on the Nigerian economy and government revenues compelled the government to initiate a programme of amnesty for militants. The programme has largely succeeded in ending direct hostilities between militants and security forces however many of the drivers of conflict remain unaddressed. Girls and women that were involved in the conflict were not given proper rehabilitation compared to their male counterparts, with very few women benefitting from the amnesty programme.

The flooding in Delta state in 2012 has exposed the gender issue not taken into cognizance during the internal displacement of persons, as health, sanitary, and other gender issue were not considered in the structuring of the internally displaced persons camps for communities displaced by flooding. Special attention to prevent VAWGs was not considered amongst others and as such there were cases of rape and other forms of violence against women and girls in camps.

It is on this premise that the WOMEN PEACE AND SECURITY NETWORK and Delta State Ministry of Women Affairs, seeks to support the effort of the Federal Ministry of Women Affairs and Social Development and The Nigerian Stability Reconciliation Program, in adopting the National Action Plan for the Implementation of the United Nation Security Council Resolution 1325 in Delta State. Based on the principles of gender inclusion of the UNSCR1325 on Women Peace and Security and the five pillars on which the NAP is structured which encourages the full PARTICIPATION of women in decision making, peace building and conflict mitigation and resolution process, the PROSECUTION of perpetrators of VAWGS, the PROMOTION of the rights of women and girls through gender sensitive legislation amongst others, the PREVENTION of VAWG and the PROTECTION of women and girls from violence. The adoption of the NAP and domestication of same in Delta State will go a long way to ensure women and girls are protected in times of conflict and in peace times.
